

Kingston Taxpayers Association Opposed To More Relief Funds

Any further appropriations for emergency relief work—group heard Alfred Schmid.

The Kingston Taxpayers' Association, at the close of a long meeting Tuesday evening, went on record as opposed to any further appropriations for emergency work relief. The association was taken following a motion by Elmer Swart that the association be on record as opposed to any further appropriations. He asked that the city had received for the $17,000 already expended for this purpose and commented to some extent on the work that had been done, saying among other things that the relief work project had been taken up, that in many cases there was no work to be done, that in instances relief checks were used to pay for repairs on automobiles and that "about all the city got out of it was a steam roller."

Mr. Swart said that Mayor Carey had recommended a further appropriation of $50,000 for this work, but he was opposed to it.

Questions Motioned

Max Reben questioned the wisdom of the motion and asked if the circumstances had been fully investigated. He said that it would be necessary to find work for people, he suggested that where work was not properly performed the blame should be put upon those in charge. The sentiment of the meeting, however, seemed to be that if it was necessary to give relief it might better be given directly as such and attempt made to put it under the name of payment for work. Despite Mr. Reben's loud "No," President Terry declared the motion carried.

There were 21 present when President Terry called the meeting to order at 8:25. Mrs. Church, the secretary, read the minutes of the June 6 meeting, bills were paid, two new members reported and a communication was read from an unnamed party, protesting against "three taxes" for water use—for household use, for lawn and for washing cars. As the letter was unsigned no action was taken on it.

Made Investigation

Max Reben, for the committee named at a previous meeting to investigate the public welfare activities, said that the committee had made a thorough investigation and was convinced that in the home relief work great care is being exercised before relief is granted. He stated that it looked as if expenditures for 1932 would easily double those of 1931. Concerning the investigation the committee reported:

"Our inspection and investigation convinces us that while the problem of relief is one that the taxpayers of Kingston must meet, we are fortunate in having this matter in the hands of a Board of Public Welfare and its superintendent alive to the requirements that every applicant for relief is entitled to careful investigation as to his needs, but that the taxpayer, who in the end must foot the bill, must also be carefully protected against applicants demanding support for which they are not justly entitled."

We acknowledge with thanks the cooperation in our inspection of Alfred Schmid and Nathan J. Cook.

Respectfully submitted,

MAX L. REBEN,
Chairman
WILLIAM HAVER,
FRED RICHTER

At the conclusion of the report President Terry said that he had acted with the committee and thoroughly approved the report. He was convinced that the commission was trying to do as near right as was in their power. On motion the report was received and copies ordered given to the press.

Difficulties Met

Alfred Schmid, head of the welfare relief commission, was present and talked at length on the work of the commission, the difficulties they met with in trying to do justice to both those applying for relief and to the taxpayers. He gave numerous instances of attempts to secure relief where it was not justified. He said that the aim of the commission was to help people where help was needed, but not to give enough relief so that the recipients could "sit back and live on the city." He said that it was difficult to get the real facts in many cases and suggested that taxpayers and others could do a real service by giving the commission any information they might have regarding people who were receiving help to which they were not entitled.

One precaution just adopted is to insist that persons applying for relief, in case their own automobiles, must deposit their license plates with the commission and leave them as long as relief is being granted. Another plan they expect to put in operation is to demand sworn affidavits from all persons asking for relief.

Mr. Schmid answered many questions put to him by members of the association. Asked as to how many of those getting relief had telephones he said, "You would be surprised to learn how many had French phones in their homes." He said the investigators had found a good many, but he did not think there were many such at present.

Explained Procedure

Regarding purchase of provisions at wholesale Mr. Schmid said that up to November 1st they followed that procedure, but that the state commission had ruled that in order for the city to receive a refund from

Lausanne Agreement Known to America Is Chamberlain's Belief

Expect Prime Minister MacDonald to Clear Up Mystery of "Gentlemen's Agreement" at Lausanne—C. S. Denies Being Consulted.

London, July 12 (P)—Great Britain looked today to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to clear up the mystery of the "gentlemen's agreement" at Lausanne and to explain a statement of Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday that the United States was consulted before the agreement was reached.

Mr. Chamberlain's statement was interpreted by some newspapers as a hint that a secret agreement on war debt revision had been made with the United States before Germany's reparations bill was cut three billion gold marks (about $750,000,000).

(At Washington yesterday Secretary of State Stimson said no representative of the state department had anything to do with framing the so-called gentlemen's agreement, which provides that the reparations settlement shall not go into effect until the United States scales down its debt claims.)

Replied To Attack

The Chamberlain statement was made in the House of Commons in reply to an attack by Winston Churchill in which the latter said that, from his knowledge of public opinion in America, he believed "no more unfortunate approach toward debt cancellation could have been made than the procedure at Lausanne."

The chancellor replied that it was embarrassing to him to have to anticipate the prime minister's speech today, and that Mr. Churchill's attack "had done no service to Britain."

"After all," he said, "we were in touch at Lausanne, not only with European representatives, but we also had an opportunity of conversations with the representatives of the United States, so we would ask the house to believe that, in this rather delicate situation, we have no reason to think that the course we have taken is going to lead to any of those unfortunate results Mr. Churchill anticipates."

Prejudice Lawful Claims

Churchill also said that if the settlement at Lausanne actually was contingent on debts settlements with the United States and ratification was to be delayed until then the whole settlement shrank in importance and must greatly prejudice Great Britain's lawful claims upon her debtors.

He begged the government not to bring the question to a head until after the American presidential election declaring that to raise it now in the atmosphere of the election would be disastrous to the ever-growing number of friends of debt revision in the United States.

FEDERAL AGENTS HAD BUSY DAY MONDAY

Agents from the Kingston prohibition office visited "Dick's Place," at New Paltz Monday and arrested Otto Petersen. They seized alleged wine and beer. At premises on Burd street, Nyack, they arrested Anthony Carleo and seized beer, several 200 gallon vats and other equipment. They also seized alleged gin, whiskey and beer at 50 Cedar Hill avenue, Nyack and arrested Harry Smith.

At 10 Maple avenue, Haverstraw, Walworth Mackey was arrested and alleged gin, whiskey, wine and beer seized. All defendants were held for arraignment before Commissioner Northrop in Newburgh on charges of possession and sale.

A Cadillac sedan was seized by the agents near Eddyville. A quantity of beer was confiscated but no arrests were made.

Committed To Jail

Ubaldo Brini, 42, of New York, was committed to the Ulster county jail for 30 days in default of a fine of $10, following his arraignment before Justice Wallace Shults at Woodstock, on a charge of assault in the third degree. Brini, who is chief at a Woodstock restaurant, was charged with striking one of the other employees.

Two Train Riders

Daniel J. O'Regan and Joseph G. Donegan, both of New York, were committed to jail for three days each on charges of train riding. They were arraigned before Justice Hasbrouck at New Paltz.

The state it would be necessary for the commission to issue food orders on retail stores.

The commission paid rent and electric light where deemed necessary, but sometimes asked people to move when they were paying what was considered too high rent.

Asked as to how many were receiving help at present Mr. Schmid said that $25 families were given relief last week.

The commission had received from the government, through the Red Cross, 1,700 sacks of flour of 24½ pounds each, which were being distributed. It was suggested that many women today couldn't use the flour if they got it and Mr. Schmid said that some had told the commission that they didn't want flour.

Mr. Schmid was given a vote of thanks for his very enlightening talk.

Following the adoption of the motion against further appropriations for work relief the meeting adjourned.

"ECONOMICAL FINANCING" MAY COST KINGSTON $865.70

The courts recently declared invalid the tax imposed on National Banks some years ago. The amount agreed to be refunded between the banks and the City of Kingston was one-half of total tax amounting to $16,175.25.

Mayor Carey proposes to issue bonds at the rate of 5% interest, payable as follows:

$11,175.25	on July 15th, 1933.
$10,000.00	on July 15th, 1934.
$10,000.00	on July 15th, 1935.
$10,000.00	on July 15th, 1936.
$ 5,000.00	on July 15th, 1937.

A tabulation as to interest is as follows:

$11,175.25	March 1, 1933-July 15, 1933.	$209.52
$10,000.00	March 1, 1934-July 15, 1934.	$187.48
$10,000.00	March 1, 1935-July 15, 1935.	$187.48
$10,000.00	March 1, 1936-July 15, 1936.	$187.48
$ 5,000.00	March 1, 1937-July 15, 1937.	$ 93.74
		$865.70

The general tax levy in which principal and interest for bonds is included is made payable during February, and the taxes are substantially paid into the City Treasury by March 1 of each year. This means that the principal and interest for payment of bank tax refund bonds will be available for payment on March 1, of each year.

The present Carey administration proposes to keep this money on hand for a period of 4½ months from March 1 to July 15, and then pay the bonds and interest. The above table shows that the cost of this "economical financing" to the taxpayers for the term of these bonds, to be $865.70.

Sound public financing would require that these bonds and accrued interest be paid as soon as the tax money for this purpose was in the City Treasury.

Would Mr. Taxpayer leave a note in the bank stand and pay interest on it if he had the money in his pocket to pay it?

Ogden Mills Opened St. Louis Communist Republican Campaign Denounced Roosevelt

Boston, July 12 (P)—Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, last night opened the Republican national campaign by picking apart, piece by piece, the acceptance address of the Democratic nominee, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Boston's historic Faneuil Hall was the setting for the criticisms and denunciations of Secretary Mills, who centered his address around the charge that Gov. Roosevelt has no program to meet the economic situation.

To put it in his own words, Mills was "taking off some of the trimmings" and "tin foil to get at the facts."

The treasury secretary sought of the New York Governor "specifically what the administration has failed to do or has done in this emergency that is open to fair criticism."

To the criticism directed at the administration's credit achievements, Mills pointed to the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and provisions for additional credit for Federal land banks allied with agriculture.

Gov. Roosevelt's tariff utterances came in for criticism and Mills disapproved the Democratic nominee's plan to "enter into a series of bargaining tariffs according to the European practice."

The pledges of Gov. Roosevelt and his party to drastic economy, abolition of useless offices and consolidation of government bureaus were met with the assertion that "expenditures of the state of New York increased by one third from 1929 to 1931," that Democrats of the House voted by a large majority for "Garner's park barrel measure," and that "they declined to give the President the authority to abolish useless bureaus."

Little Chance for Legal Beer Seen

Washington, July 12 (P)—Unless there is a special session, beer of more than one-quarter of one percent alcohol can not possibly be made legal by congressional action before mid-winter.

The Senate, as had been expected, yesterday halted the latest move to write 3.45 per cent into the Volstead Act instead of the present limitation. Even the most ardent supporters of a change conceded today that with Congress getting ready to adjourn this week there could not be a sufficient change before then in votes on Capitol Hill to amend the law.

Wets now hope that between adjournment and the time Congress convenes the first Monday in December they can change the votes to overturn the 50 to 25 vote against Senator Bingham's (R., Conn.) beer bill. Dries, of course, will work for just the opposite.

Although the Democratic platform includes a plank advocating repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and "immediate" modification of the Volstead law, only 11 members of that party voted with the wets.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH AT GRADE CROSSING

Rochester, N. Y., July 12 (P)—A man and a woman were killed today in a train and automobile crash at a private grade crossing in Clover Road. Their sedan was struck by train No. 62 of the New York Central Railroad, westbound. The bodies were tossed 160 feet and the wreckage of the automobile carried a half mile down the track before the train was brought to a stop.

The name on an automobile operator's license found in the man's clothing was Salvatore Luminello, 48, of Rochester. The woman was not immediately identified.

Libby Reynolds Will Leave Estate Where Husband Met Death

Best—'Groucher' Jury Says Smith Reynolds Died of Wounds by Un-known Assassin.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 12 (P)—Libby Holman Reynolds fought her way out of the depths of physical and mental exhaustion today as plans were made for her to leave without delay the palatial Reynolds family estate here where for two days she was held a prisoner as a material witness in the mysterious fatal shooting of her young husband, Smith Reynolds, tobacco fortune heir.

Alfred Holman, of Cincinnati, her father, who comforted her yesterday as she testified before a coroner's jury, said the former Broadway singer would be taken to the country or the mountains for a rest.

The young widow, whose marriage was suddenly and tragically ended by his pistol bullet death early last Wednesday, is expected by her father to be in condition to make the trip "within a day or two."

Terrible Experience

"Libby had her first natural sleep since the tragedy early today," Holman, Cincinnati attorney, said. "She was of course quite overcome by the terrible experience she had to undergo before the coroner's jury."

The jury after more than three hours deliberation returned a verdict shortly before midnight that Smith Reynolds came to his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by a party or parties unknown.

The verdict served to release the torch singer from custody as a material witness, along with Ab Walker, life long chum of Smith, who also had been held, but it was not endorsed by Holman.

"I know it was a case of suicide," he said, with a show of strong feeling, adding "that is, of course, as far as one can know anything without actually having seen it."

The 26-year-old widow has with her for comfort and solace besides her father, her mother and a sister, Mrs. Myron Kahn, also of Cincinnati. R. J. Reynolds, Jr., is expected to return from a cruise in African waters by Friday. He is Smith's older brother.

The grand jury met at the court house this morning as a part of regular routine, but there was no indication whether it would consider the case.

NEW YORK-PENNSYLVANIA LEAGUE WILL CONTINUE

Auburn, N. Y., July 12 (P)—Wild rumors are causing P. B. Farrell, president of the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League, worries no end.

He announced today: "The New York-Pennsylvania League had no idea of disbanding. Whoever started that rumor did so without any authority and it is absolutely groundless. One or two of the clubs have encountered a few rough spots, but they are nothing serious and can be ironed out. They are not of such importance as to cause the disbanding of the circuit and there is no danger of a collapse on the part of the league."

"I want it thoroughly understood by the owners and fans alike that the league is on a good footing and will continue to play to the end of the schedule."

"THE WHISTLING DEMOCRAT" OF TWO CONVENTIONS DEAD

Rochester, N. Y., July 12 (P)—William C. Page, "the whistling Democrat" of two national conventions, died today at his home in Mumfords.

Page had attended every national convention of his party since 1876 and earned his unusual title by blowing a postman's whistle during the Houston convention in 1928. The sound was carried to thousands of homes over the radio and brought many queries as to the identity of the whistler.

"The Sage of Wheatland," as he was known to his neighbors, made his whistle heard at the Chicago convention this year, too, and by a pre-arranged code of signals gave his friends an inside slant on the convention trend. A chest injury suffered in a Chicago taxicab accident led to an illness which proved fatal.

GRAND LODGE OF ELKS URGED TO STAND BY AMERICA

Birmingham, Ala., July 12 (P)—The Grand Lodge of Elks was urged by its grand exalted ruler, John R. Coen of Sterling, Colo., last night to "stand by America."

By such support and faith, Coen told about 5,000 delegates. The country will "soon pass on to periods of prosperity surpassing those ever enjoyed before."

The lodge has held its own, he reported, in membership and charitable work in spite of prevailing conditions.

Today the Elks met to elect a new grand exalted ruler. Floyd Thompson, Chicago attorney, was generally conceded the honor.

Milwaukee and Chicago bid for the 1932 convention.

Garner-Wagner Bill Vetoed As Substitute Measure Is Formed

Hoover Vetoed $2,122,000,000 Relief Bill Calling It a Violation of "Every Sound Principle of Public Finance and Government."

Washington, July 12 (P)—Out of the wreckage of the $2,122,000,000 Garner-Wagner relief bill vetoed by President Hoover there arose today an almost identical measure, except that Democrats sought a different method of getting financial aid to individuals.

The White House veto message, which stopped short the old bill yesterday criticized as violating "every sound principle of public finance and government." Speaker Garner's plan for loans to individuals from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Thus it was made a campaign issue of unusual potentiality.

Democrats accepted the presidential attitude without a vote in either house to override his veto. They sought today to put through a scheme under which Federal Reserve Banks could lend to private individuals in need if the Federal Reserve Board approved. Some Republicans supported this plan too.

The New Bill

The new bill includes everything in the vetoed proposal save the loans to individuals—even to the $222,000,000 for public works. Its total remains $2,122,000,000. It allows an addition of $1,800,000,000 to the $2,000,000,000 already available to the Reconstruction Corporation, including $300,000,000 for loans to states.

Leaders of both parties in senate and house worked to pass a new measure quickly. Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) made the necessary parliamentary maneuvers for action in his branch while house majority leaders indicated they would go along.

Mr. Hoover's veto message strongly condemned loans to individuals. "Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country," he said. "Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals (directors of the Reconstruction Corporation)."

When the house received this message, about an hour after congressional action had been completed, Republicans tried for a vote on the veto. Democrats conceded they did not have the necessary two-thirds majority and successfully blocked the vote by sending the message to committee.

Asks For More Members

Mr. Hoover immediately followed up with another message asking that the reconstruction corporation's directorate be increased from seven to eight and that the federal reserve board governor and the farm loan commissioner be relieved of duties as ex-officio members. He pointed out that the directorate work was "extraordinary" and that there "is danger of a physical breakdown among the ex-officio members in their endeavor to carry dual duties."

With relief nearer conclusion, leaders on both sides of the Capitol agreed to make a strenuous effort to adjourn Thursday—or Saturday at the latest. There already were about 120 absentees in the house and 20 in the senate, home campaigning.

Talking Serial Pictures Expected To Be Filmed

Hollywood, July 12 (P)—There the girl was, lashed cruelly to a boulder in the canyon.

Not far upstream, an unshaven villain—a stranger to gentility and a menace to society—lighted a fuse to dynamite under the dam, while his henchmen pinioned the despairing sweetheart of the girl.

As you saw these scenes are to be re-enacted with all the benefits of the talkies. Each group and each shout of warning in "The Perils of Pauline" is to be articulated for the first time. Universal Studios announce the purchase of talkie rights from RKO-Pathe, to this old thriller, as well as "The Exploits of Elaine," and "The New Exploits of Elaine," the three serials which made Pearl White one of the first movie stars.

Pearl has retired from the movies but a new "serial queen" probably will be developed to fill her roles in these pictures, which will be refilmed in a few months.

When the talkies first came in, there was some interruption in serial-making. Serials have mostly outdoor scenes, and delay was experienced until sound recording was adapted to these needs.

DOXATES BUILDING TO TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL

Lyman T. Schoonmaker, who has just completed building the Nurses' Home of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, has donated to the hospital a large temporary tool house, which is to be converted into a two-car garage.

The Nurses' Home, which is to be a memorial to the late William Hutton, built largely through the generosity of his daughter, Mrs. Eleanor H. Washburn, is about completed and will be ready for occupancy about the end of the week. Harry Pearson and Fred Sargher.

McCarthy, Desperate Gunman, Killed in Battle With Police

Three Others Wounded When Police Close In On His Hideout On a Back Road Near Albany—Michael Basile Surrenders.

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (P)—A lone, lawless manhunt for Edward "Pat" McCarthy, one of the most desperate of New York city's gunmen, ended here last night with the death of McCarthy in a gun battle and the arrest of Michael Basile, wanted in the Harlem "baby killing."

Three persons, a New York city detective, Mrs. Joan McCarthy, the slain gunman's wife, and George Kelly, with a reputation as an Albany thug, were wounded in the gun fight, which took place on a New York detectives and two state troopers closed in on McCarthy's hideout on a back road off the Albany-Schenectady road.

Basile threw down his pistol and shouted he surrendered after McCarthy was slain. He was known as a man with a long record but it was not known that he was a suspect in the Harlem crime, for which police had long sought to question McCarthy.

That the New York police attached immense importance to the case was shown by the fact that Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, and Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan, Deputy Chief Inspector John J. Hennessey and Inspector Francis J. Keane all hurried to Albany during the night.

Mulrooney merely said the police had a "good case" against Basile. He said the gangster would be taken to New York for trial.

There had been reports here that the police hoped to learn from Mrs. McCarthy whether her husband had any connection with the Jack Diamond murder in Albany but Mulrooney said that was purely an Albany case so far as he was concerned and that New York police were not interested.

It is known that McCarthy, with a reputation as a "trigger man" for gangster bosses, was wanted for questioning in the Harlem baby murder and in the gangster murders of Vincent Coll and Charles "Vannie" Higgins, among the more recent of New York city's gangland crimes.

He was wanted also as the slayer of a New York city detective last fall. The officer was killed as McCarthy raced across roofs in the 78th street neighborhood in New York, shooting at pursuing police, who wanted to arrest him for questioning in the baby killing.

That murder resulted in two detectives, Harold Moore and Thomas Riggs, being given the order to hunt until they got their man.

Moore was one of the wounded in last night's battle. Mulrooney said Saturday they learned about the hideout on the lonely back road. The house stood on a hill and commanded every approach.

Late yesterday, with the two state police to help them, they approached the house. Posting the Troopers to prevent escapes by a rear doorway, the detectives boldly walked into the open and started for the porch, where McCarthy was sitting. The gangster lived up to his reputation. He sprang from the porch, and raced into the house, where he seized a gun. Firing at the detectives McCarthy was brought down as he attempted to escape in an automobile in front of the house.

In front of the house, Mulrooney dropped his pistol and shouldered his rifle. Officers entered to find Mrs. McCarthy with a bullet in the right hip. She was hit by a bullet fired at the two men shooting from the windows.

All the wounded were expected to recover.

In the house the officers found a sub-machine gun, shotguns and pistols.

"SHOE KING" KILLED WHEN HIS PRIVATE PLANE CRASHES

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 12 (P)—Thomas Bata, 56, Czechoslovakian "shoe king," veteran aviation enthusiast and known as the Henry Ford of Czechoslovakia, was killed today when his private plane crashed over his own flying field at Otrokowitz.

Bata, who with his brother Alstadt, made a fortune making shoes, was an enthusiastic advocate of the use of airplanes for commercial transportation. Two years ago he bought a fleet of three tri-motored planes for use in his business. Originally he planned to fly to the United States in one of them.

Less than a year ago he set out from Prague on an airplane (tonr) with shoe samples, to seek new markets.

Last spring he bought a tract of ground in Calcutta for a shoe factory, declaring it was a shame 20,000,000 Indians went barefoot. He said he planned to manufacture canvas shoes with rubber soles which would sell for about 20 cents a pair.

This morning he took off on a trip to Switzerland at 6 a. m. from his private airfield. The plane reached an altitude of about 3,000 feet when it suddenly went into a tail spin and crashed.

The pilot was instantly killed. Bata died on the way to a hospital.

Sao Paulo Government Overthrown by Rebels

Sao Paulo, Brazil, July 12 (AP).—The Government of the Federal Government (General) in Sao Paulo, richest and most powerful of the Brazilian states, was overthrown today and leaders of the revolution which began last week had taken over the helm.

In the meantime, reports were received that the Federal government of President Getulio Vargas at Rio de Janeiro, was concentrating army and navy forces upon Sao Paulo determined to crush the revolt.

Military censorship was imposed here and even dispatches of an obviously domestic nature, in Portuguese, were stopped.

Marcelo de Souza Dantas of Sao Paulo, president of the National Coffee Council, resigned and President Vargas named Mauro Roquette to succeed him.

The rebels here claimed that every military garrison in the state was supporting their movement against the Vargas government. Sao Paulo was one of the last hold-outs, during the revolution of 1930 which placed Vargas in power, and overthrew the government of President Washington Luis.

Sao Paulo has never been enthusiastic over the Vargas government. It has resented the small voice it has been given in the Federal government to which, as a result of its coffee production and textile industries, its shoe manufacturing and other industries, it contributes 60 per cent of the revenue.

Clinic Schedule At Benedictine Hospital

The first clinic to be held at the Benedictine Hospital this week will be the Clinic for the Diseases of the Stomach and Intestinal Tract, which will be held on Wednesday morning, July 13, from 10 to 12 o'clock. The diagnosis and treatment of the clinic will be in charge of several members of the staff.

The Clinic for the Diseases of Women will be held on Thursday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock.

The Pre-Cancer Clinic will be held on Friday morning from 10 to 11:30 o'clock.

The Pediatric Clinic will be held on Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. All children brought to this clinic will receive medical care. Any information regarding the above clinics may be obtained by communicating with the Benedictine Hospital either by letter or phone. Telephone 2500.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Mexico City—Lips that touch liquor too often shall never enunciate marriage vows in San Luis Potosi, says the governor. Comes a dispatch declaring he has promulgated a law requiring candidates for matrimony to show a doctor's certificate announcing they are not wedded to the bottle.

New York—"The Statue of Liberty, hump!" is the probable reaction of William H. Considine. He made a sightseeing trip to the famous torch girl. So, as it happened, did detective Lieutenant John O'Brien of Providence, R. I., who is on vacation. The result was Considine's arrest to answer in Providence a charge of obtaining $20,000 jewelry on false pretenses.

Washington—Senator Bingham's persistence in offering beer bills brought this comment from Senator Norris: "If he dies and goes to Heaven, as I know he will, and St. Peter opens the gates, the senator from Connecticut will refuse to go in unless he has a bottle of beer under his arm."

Johnson City, Tenn.—The excitement started when Gentry Hall's two little sons touched a match to an old hen's feathers. Squawking, she scuttled toward the barn and set it afire, with $5,000 loss. An eager volunteer grabbed a hose and turned it on Fire Chief Paul Spinnenweber, injuring the chief's eye.

Lincoln, Neb.—Add funerals to the list of activities banned on Sunday here. The local ministers told the city council they had too many other things to do on the Sabbath, so the council passed an ordinance forbidding funerals on Sunday.

Missionary Meeting
The regular monthly missionary meeting of the Free Methodist Church for the month of July will be held at the church on Tremper avenue, between Downs and O'Neil streets, on Wednesday evening, July 13, at 7:45. Members are expected, visitors welcome.

FRIGHTENED FLYER
KILLED IN A JUMP;
TUTOR LANDS SHIP

Plane Tailspins 1,000 Feet; Student Leaps but Fails to Open Parachute.

Chicago.—High in the air over Cicero a pilot instructor fought a terror-stricken student of flying for control of a spinning airplane. The struggle ended when the student plunged from the swirling ship and fell 1,000 feet to his death.

With the student gone the pilot was able to take the controls, right the plane when it was only 250 feet up, and bring himself safely to a landing. The man killed was Harold Burke, twenty-one years old. The instructor who escaped is Victor Lindemann, twenty-three years old.

Goes Up for New License.

Burke, who already held a private pilot's license, was taken into the air by Lindemann for the preparatory flight that would make him eligible for a limited commercial pilot's diploma. To get this coveted slip of paper it was necessary that he be able to put a plane into a tail spin and bring it out.

It was this part of the course that Lindemann was to take him through. So, with Burke sitting in the pilot's seat, and the instructor behind him in the passenger's seat, they went aloft. Burke flew for about 20 minutes, gaining altitude and following his instructions perfectly. At a height of 4,000 feet he tried the unfamiliar tail spin. What happened after that was told by Pilot Lindemann later in the Cicero police station.

"We spun as we intended," he said. "Burke should have taken only three spins and then righted the ship. But he lost his head. He froze to the controls. I tried to get them away from him and couldn't. His grip was like iron on the control stick."

"Spin followed spin until there were 14 in all. By that time we were little more than a thousand feet up. I yelled at Burke and it made no impression. Finally I slugged the side of his head with my fist, hoping to bring him out of his daze."

Student Leaps From Plane.

"He looked around and I pointed down to the ground to indicate to him that we were going to crash unless something like a miracle happened. He seemed to understand and he leaped out with his hand moving toward the ring on his parachute."

"Maybe he could have opened the chute and gotten down safely if he hadn't been hit by the left wing. We were still whirling and the wing caught him on the left arm and side. My guess is that his left arm might have been broken then. Burke dropped. Then I went to work and just managed to right the ship and get back to the airport."

The pilot said that after his student jumped he made the quick decision to stay with the ship rather than to follow and take to his own parachute.

"My plane is all that I have in the world," he said. "I had to save it."

Bomb to Strike Terror
Into Heart of Thieves

London.—The spread of motor banditry in England has at last made these somewhat insular islanders realize that their kingdom is not exactly a crimeless Eden.

Scotland Yard is now working on a "scheme of frightfulness" which, they declare, will strike terror into the heart of the law breakers. Their principal anti-bandit weapon is to be a "treacle bomb."

For some time this bomb has been submitted to daily tests, and now an order has been placed with a well-known munition firm to supply an adequate number to the police.

The missile contaminates everything it touches on explosion. The chemicals it contains are of an adhesive character, and once it strikes its objective the sticky substance can only be removed with the greatest difficulty.

If a car used in a raid or its occupants be struck with one of these treacle bombs shaped like an egg, which will probably soon be in the possession of every police officer, whether on or off duty, the vehicle will cry out for capture no matter where it travels. Even when the car is abandoned, every step of the fugitives towards the wash-basin will be a step of danger.

Gamecock Aids Bulldog
Pal in Fighting Foes

Menlo Park, Calif.—A gamecock who will fight anybody or anything to protect his bulldog pal is one of the proudest possessions of J. C. Walrath of Menlo Park. The rooster, "Cookie," and the dog, "Boots," are inseparable. Walrath said. The chicken, he explained, rides around on the dog's back and at the first sign of an attack on the dog, goes into action with wings beating and spurs flashing.

Angler Shoots Big Bass
From Tree Top in Idaho

Wallace, Idaho.—So good is the reputation of Earl Elstone for veracity that so one doubted his word when he told how he shot a four-pound bass out of a pine tree with his shotgun. The explanation is that a hawk caught the fish in its beak and flew to the tree, so Elstone cut aside his rod, took up his gun, and blazed away, scoring a direct hit on the fish as well as the hawk.

LUCKY FRANCE.

An American newspaper writer travelling in France finds to his surprise that that country is still "relatively prosperous and content." She seems almost to have escaped the business depression afflicting the world. There was more or less uneasiness felt there for a year or two, and some gain in unemployment; but lately conditions have been improving again. In all France, at the beginning of last month, there were said to be only 250,000 people out of work, and the authorities agree that that number has been steadily lessening since. It is as if there were less than three-quarters of a million unemployed in the United States—and in normal times we generally have more than that.

Fortunate France never seems so high as America in prosperity nor sinks so low in adversity. She is still mainly agricultural. Her industry, doubtless less modern than ours, is not given to such wild excesses, such orgies of finance and industrial production. A French business institution is not run on the quota system, thinking itself ruined unless it sells more every year than it did the year before. The French, considered emotional by outsiders, are really calmer than most other nationalities. Their speech may run to excess; their action chooses the same middle way. Thus they come nearer than we do to flattening out the economic cycle.

WILLIAM PENN'S STARLIGHT.

Something new in anniversary rites will be done in the William Penn festival to be held next October in Oxford, England. It was in 1682 that Penn and his Quaker colonists landed on Amsterdam soil. Portraits of the group will be illumined by light which, according to astronomers, was born at that same time. The light comes from a star named Schedir, brightest member of the constellation of Cassiopeia, which may be seen in the rough likeness of a steamer chair in the northern sky, directly across the Pole Star from the Big Dipper. Schedir is a sun like our own, though doubtless larger and brighter. Its distance from our earth is such that its light, travelling at 186,000 miles a second, takes 250 years to reach us. The same rays that would have lighted Penn's landing, if Schedir had been where our own sun is, will shine on his picture now.

This charming ceremony sets an imaginative person to unwonted musing about the wonders and mysteries of the heavens. Light rays at that same moment, two centuries and a half ago, were being shot forth from Schedir in all directions for their endless and timeless journey throughout the universe. Upon how many other inhabited planets and historic scenes have they shone since, or will they yet shine?

COURTESY TO TOURISTS

There is more motor touring this summer than might have been expected, and many cities are profiting by it. They are nearly always cities that have made special efforts to take care of the tourist trade and have won a reputation for treating visitors courteously. The secretary of an automobile club which has performed excellent service in this respect finds that touring departments all over the state are swamped with inquiries for routes to his city, and its streets are filled with cars from all over the country. He tells his fellow-citizens:

"Every resident should remember that while the visitor is a guest, he means more to the city than just that. Tourists stopping here mean dollars in the pockets of our business men and benefit for all. Every motorist who enters the city is a potential buyer of gasoline, oil, garage space, accessories, hotel accommodations, meals, miscellaneous merchandise and amusement. If he is treated well and accorded the courtesy to which a guest is entitled, he will return. He will also tell his friends back home about the friendly spirit here. Good advertising pays, and nothing gives a city more favorable publicity than the manner in which it receives its touring visitors."

Flagpole-sitters, marathon dancers and other freaks of that sort are not popular to this generation. A historian tells us that walking matches were the fashion in sporting circles in 1842. One man won a wager by walking 45 hours. Immediately a lot of rivals appeared on the scene and began walking to beat that record. The entrance of a half-breed Indian in the contest ended the fad, because he was so much better than any of the white men. In addition to the men who had nothing better to do than engage in walking marathons were the crowds who spent hours watching them. Probably there were also scornful citizens who deplored such brainless activities, just as there are today. It is pleasant and reassuring to know that not all our contemporary follies originated with us, but what of human progress? Is it not almost time for Americans to outgrow the mere endurance contest?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY

James W. Barton, M. D.

TREATMENT OR PREVENTION

There are two ways of handling diseased tonsils. First, by having them out when there is a reason to believe they may be causing trouble, and then forgetting them; second, leaving them in until they have damaged the heart, infected the ears, injured the kidneys, and then never being able to forget the damage they have done.

Cancer of every sort is small before it is large; it is always in one little spot in the body before it gets into a number of places; it can usually be operated on before it gets too late.

If a tooth needs repair it is well to remember that cavities never get smaller or less tender.

There is hardly a severe medical or surgical treatment but that might have been readily cared for, if it had been taken in time.

I have quoted the above from the Bulletin of the Indiana State Board, in which Dr. T. B. Rice aptly says, "The time to take the bull by the horns is while he is a calf, before he has horns."

Some years ago I quoted a part of a poem regarding a dangerous cliff: "Some said, 'Put a fence around the edge of the cliff.' Some 'An ambulance down in the valley.'"

Practically the entire program of all health boards is one of urging the public to sneak up on its troubles when they—the troubles—are asleep.

The point of course is that health boards know, doctors know, and many thinking people know that prevention is the common sense way to handle the ills of life. Malaria, small-pox, typhoid fever, pernicious anaemia, yellow fever, diabetes, diphtheria, scarlet fever, tuberculosis are now prevented, thousands of lives saved, and millions of people kept happy, all due to going out and preventing trouble instead of waiting to treat or cure it when it comes. It has been well said "Millions for treatment and not one cent for prevention" seems to be the idea of most people.

The thought of course is that your health, your life, the health and life of your loved ones are worth more than any sum of money, worth more than the home, or the motor car. You give thought to your money by investing it carefully, to your home by insuring it, and to your car by having it overhauled from time to time.

That body of yours—your health and life—can get insurance by regular visits to your doctor and dentist. Any cough, indigestion, shortness of breath, lump, sore, infected teeth will thus be detected before it is too late.

Odd African Monkey
The Diana monkey, a small black monkey found on the west coast of Africa, takes its name from a crescent of upright white hairs on its forehead which is suggestive of a new moon, the emblem of the Greek goddess, Diana. Its forepaws and long beard are also white and its back is marked with streaks of brown. Although this species of monkey is gentle and easily tamed, specimens sent to menageries rarely live very long. They are unable to stand the change of climate and the restrictions of captivity.

Gambler's Throw
by Eustace L. Adams.

SYNOPSIS: Jerry Coleman's return by plane to Ashwood's tropical island, with Stevens working a machine gun, was the first of a series of events which led to the capture of Jerry, Emory and Stevens. The story is a thrilling tale of adventure and suspense.

Chapter II
A MYSTERIOUS LETTER

THE hidden machine-gun became silent.
The ground in front of the house seemed magically cleared of running men.

The plane dived at the tree behind which the second machine-gun had been mounted.

Ashwood rose, slipped his hot automatic into his shoulder holster and stretched, glancing about the room. Then the hard lines reappeared in his face as he glanced toward the far end of the room. Emory, getting to his feet, saw Alfred, the faithful little steward, lying motionless.

Ashwood limped across the room, looked down into the lifeless face for a long moment and turned away. "Let's pass out a round of grog," Ashie suggested Emory. "I think we've earned it."

Stevens pushed his well-scrubbed plate aside with a sigh of complete contentment.

He grinned comfortably at Nancy, who looked adorable in her borrowed cook's costume.

Then he wandered to the door of the wrecked living room and surveyed the scene of desolation. In the reaction from the battle, it had been easy to forget the splintered walls.

"Glad I wasn't here last night," he observed judiciously. "See you later."

"There," declared Jerry thoughtfully, "goes a real man."

"He's had more fun the past few days," stated Ashwood, smiling, "than he's had in ten years."

"If you'll excuse me," said Emory, rising, "I'm going to find a desk and write a letter."

"I'll ease out and see if the boys have cleaned up properly," decided the cripple. "Want to come along, you two?" He looked at Mallory and Martin so meaningfully that they started, guiltily, from their chairs and followed him precipitately.

"Here," he said to Nancy, "give these to the minister. Don't let him thank us."

"Look at these," she murmured and passed them to Jerry.

They were two checks for $25,000 each, drawn simply to the order of "Dr. Titherington's church." One was signed by Mallory, the other by Martin.

"The fight last night seems to have restored Mallory to something like normal," observed Jerry. "If it has done as much for Hamilton, we'll have a lot to be thankful for."

"The minister has finally agreed," said Nancy, "that if Hamilton wakes up in his right mind, nobody is to tell him about Williams and the guard. Their deaths will be explained as part of the general fight last night."

Jerry fell silent, his thoughts wandering. In another few hours they would be on their way back to civilization. In another week, perhaps, this glorious girl would be back on Broadway, charming the hearts of audiences.

"And now, young man, you are going to help me with the dishes," she informed him, her eyes sparkling at his moody countenance.

Jerry carried a pile of dishes into the kitchen.

"How dare you put them into the water without scraping them! It's going to take me some time to train you, but I'll do it, yet!"

He grasped her roughly by both shoulders.

"What did you mean by that?" he demanded.

"You men are so awkward," she parried, not meeting his eyes.

"Now you listen," said Jerry. "Isn't this whole business hard enough for me without your joking about it? You know I love you, so why try to plague me with it? You know that I worship you, your marvellous eyes, your sassy little nose, your kissable lips and—my God—you laugh at me!"

A soft, slender hand crept up to his mouth and pressed hard against it with surprising strength.

"Jerry, you're so dumb!"

He spluttered and shook his head, trying to speak.

"Are you really," she asked softly, her clear eyes meeting his at last, "going to cast me off and divorce me?"

He stared incredulously at her, unable to speak.

"You're a beast!" Her voice shook a little. "Married two whole days and you haven't kissed me once!"

He reached for her hungrily and in his hand-muscle arms all but broke her back, she made no complaint. But, of course, she couldn't. Her lips were sealed.

At length, it may have been five minutes later or an hour, Nancy Westworth Calhoun pushed her husband away and straightened her hair.

"One more kiss!"

"Not until you return with another load of dishes."

He grumbled, but hastened into the dining room.

Just as he was scooping up an armful of plates and cups his eye fell upon a large square envelope. Upon its face was his own name in large, scrawling letters. Anxious to return to Nancy, he grabbed a handful of plates and raced to the kitchen. Thumbing open the envelope flap, he withdrew the enclosure and stared, puzzled, at Emory's familiar handwriting.

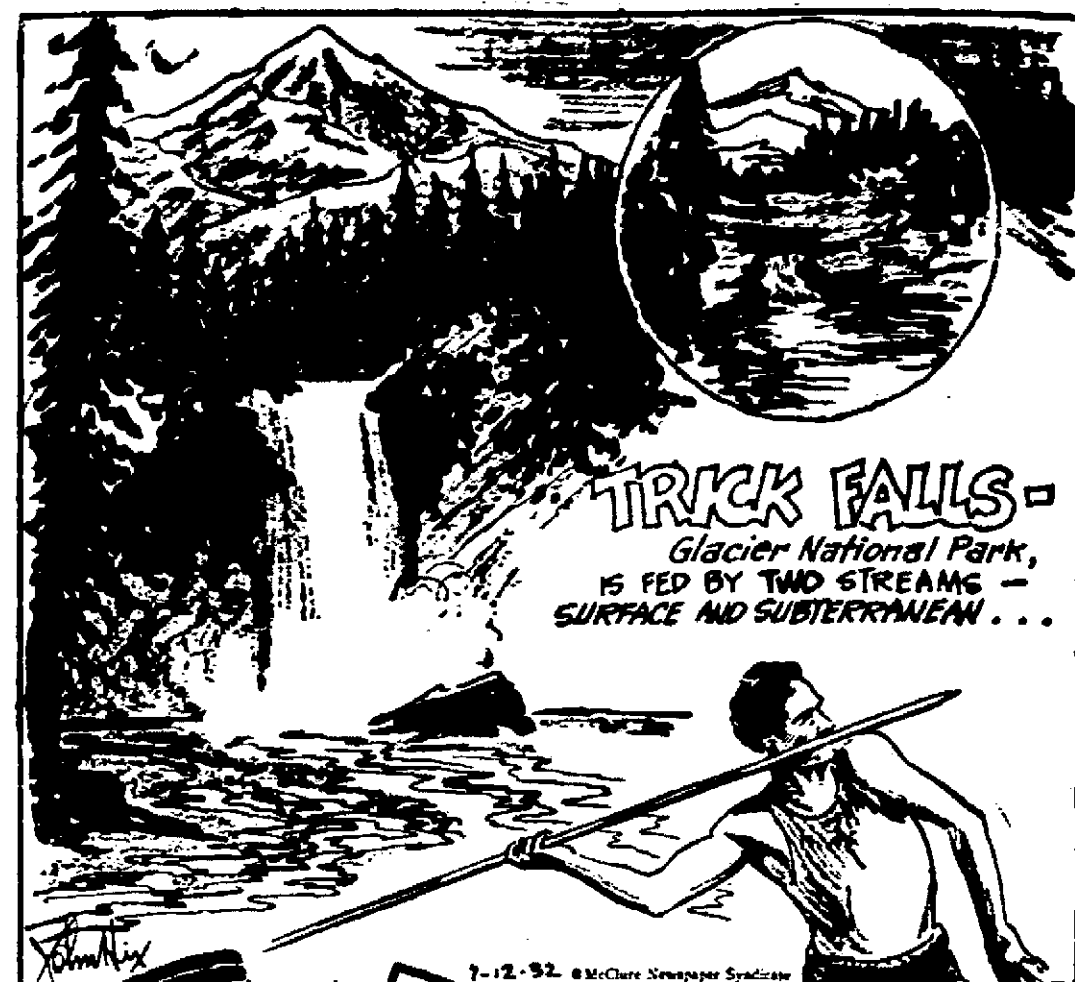

"What's the matter, Jerry?" Nancy was alarmed at his expression.

"Here, you read it to me." He thrust the letter into her hand.

"Dear old top," she read, "it's almost time to shove off for New York and, eventually, Boston. But I can't stick it."

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—

by John Hix

Two sources feed Trick Falls in 1929 set a new official record at a which they excrete floss, joining the Glacier National Park, Washington—college meet by throwing the javelin leaves. Leaves used by the ants in building their nests are not removed from the twigs. They remain green and continue to grow while the nest is occupied.

Strange as it seems, Smith never threw the javelin as far as he did the first time he tried it.

The adult spinner ant is incapable of spinning, but with the customary resourcefulness of the ant, it makes the larva do the spinning for it.

When a tree top nest is to be completed, worker ants arrange the leaves they want joined, then go to javelin, he threw it 179 feet to break the nursery and bring the larva, or the South Carolina state record. With baby ants, to the scene. These creatures this accomplishment he entered competition with the track team and in development, have silk-glands from 000 Feet Without Injury.

New York City Produce Market

New York, July 12 (AP)—Produce markets were largely unchanged today. After a firm opening, the market reacted a little in the morning, in sympathy with wheat, but came up again toward midday, as bonds maintained a fair undertone, despite a degree of irregularity.

The morning selling was concentrated in the same handful of issues that have recently been soggy, notably American Telephone, Coca-Cola, Case, and Allied Chemical, which declined temporarily a point or more. Auburn, yesterday's high flier, gave up a substantial part of its gain.

By early afternoon, however, fractional net gains appeared in such issues as U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, National Biscuit, General Foods, Borden, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, and others. Sugars were firm, Central Amalgam and American Sugar rising a point. United Aircraft gained as much, while the preferred jumped 5 in the packing stocks, Armour of Delaware and Gobe were up about a point. The shoe stocks also were higher. Brown, gaining nearly 2 points, and International about half as much.

The government wheat crop report of July 1, showing an unexpectedly large gain in the spring crop, carried the staple off to new lows for the season at the opening of the Chicago pit, with a temporarily adverse effect upon shares, but as the stock market session wore on, some of the railroad stocks, particularly the Northwestern issues, firmed up, presumably reflecting the conclusion that the big crop should result in improved traffic during the last half of the year.

The weekly consolidated statement for Federal Reserve member banks in 101 leading cities showed further sharp contraction in outstanding bank credit, loans and investments shrinking $222,000,000, but the largest item in this decline was a reduction of $113,000,000 in loans on securities.

Nature's Bounty Will Be Curtailed in State

Albany, N. Y., July 12 (AP)—Nature's bounty will be curtailed in New York State this year.

The state department of agriculture and markets has forecast a decrease in every crop but pears and cherries. Heaviest decreases were forecast in dry beans, which are expected to slump 45 per cent, and winter wheat, due to drop 33 per cent.

The weather is principally to blame, the department found, May and June drouths being mainly responsible.

Here are the statistics: Decreases forecast—in the "Big Four": corn, off 13 per cent; oats, off 16 per cent; potatoes, off 23 per cent; and apples, off fractionally. Other decreases—spring wheat, six per cent; barley, 16 per cent; rye, 21 per cent; tobacco, 14 per cent; peaches, six per cent; grapes, 23 per cent; hay, 23 per cent. Increases—pears, 122 per cent; cherries, 49 per cent.

THREE SENTENCED TO JAIL IN CITY COURT TODAY

In city court this morning, Judge Bernard A. Culliton sentenced three strangers to five days in the county jail. They were John Molloy of Butte, Mont., and John Mack of Chicago, two iron workers arrested on the Strand for public intoxication, and Harry Quinn, a welder of Newburgh, arrested for disorderly conduct.

Martin Coons, arrested Monday morning on complaint of Jane Rose, who charged him with third degree assault, was discharged when the complainant failed to appear to press the charge.

Reynolds' Case Not Closed, Says Sheriff

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 12 (AP).—Sheriff Transou Scott today said his investigation of Smith Reynolds' death was not closed, but he declined to reveal his plans to continue an inquiry into the shooting of the heir to tobacco millions.

The sheriff issued a brief formal statement in which he took no notice of a decision by a coroner's jury last night that Reynolds, who was shot to death in his home here last Wednesday, came to his death by a gunshot wound at the hands of a party or parties unknown.

"So far as I and my office are concerned, the investigation is not closed. No case is closed as long as it remains a mystery and unsolved, but I am not in a position to give a statement of in what particular way the investigation will be conducted."

SUMMER SUITS OF LINEN AND PIQUES

Are Gleeefully Adopted by Society's Younger Set.

Summer suits of linen and pique have been adopted by the younger set with loud cries of joy.

They are carefully tailored affairs, exhibiting the wide-shouldered, slim-waisted effect so important in the cloth suits of early spring.

The smartest ones are of heavy linen, or a linen and mohair mixture, or a fine, heavy pique, and they are shown in the darker street colors of brown, black and navy, as well as in white and pastels.

Nary blue piques fashions one of the most popular suits of the season, which has elbow length cape sleeves, a short, fitted mess jacket and a slim, straight skirt. It is worn with a checked gingham blouse of red, white and yellow which ties in a big bow under the chin, and a little stitched hat of navy blue pique completes the picture.

Then there is a black linen suit, double-breasted, with flaring lapels, worn with a blouse of candy-striped organdie. It also has a black linen hat to match.

Glenn Hunter Wins Praise At Elverhoj

An ovation greeted Glenn Hunter Monday evening when the final curtain fell on "Merton of the Movies" at the Elverhoj Playhouse. From the burst of applause which greeted his first entrance, the audience was Mr. Hunter's, and the final scene ended with the audience still seated, applauding and cheering a perfect performance.

From the dusty bareness of Gashwiler's General Store in Simsbury, Ill., Merton Gill dreams of the movie studios in Hollywood. He saves and saves, from his $3 a week, enough money to go to Hollywood, meanwhile taking a correspondence course in the art of the silver screen, and reading the motion picture mouth-les.

Throughout the scenes at the Hollywood studios, in which the production methods of the epics of the screen are ridiculed, Merton retains his high ideals and scorn for comedy; and when his success is finally due to his "low-comedy face," Merton makes the best of a bad situation and accepts his stardom even in the despised field of comedy.

It is difficult to distract one's attention from the stellar figure, long enough to mention the exceedingly noteworthy performance of the entire cast of twenty-four. Robert Le Sueur is irresistible as Amos G. Gashwiler, the village storekeeper. Another interesting character bit was contributed by Julian Porter, whose Mr. Walberg was brief but authentic. Ethel Borden, as the hard-boiled casting director, brought a pleasant gaiety to the scene outside the Holden lot, and W. Messenger Bellis as the indigent and Bourbon-loving "ham" was a splendid foil for her. Joan Hathaway, playing opposite Mr. Hunter as the Montague girl, was in a role the best suited to her of any she has played this season, while Bram Nossen was his usual pleasant and assured self as Jeff Baird, director of Buckeye Comedies.

In closing, one must mention the settings of Walter Walden which created a maximum of effect with the minimum of means on the small Elverhoj stage. His was a fitting setting for one of the most hilarious yet tender plays that has ever been written.

The figure in the center, at the right, is wearing a play suit of red and white striped broadcloth with pleated shorts and with a broad brimmed hat to match. In the lower right corner is a play suit of printed percale with a sunbonnet of self material.

The infant's sun suit in the center is of blue broadcloth, piped with white and trimmed with pastel appliques. At lower left, is a one-piece bathing suit in red, endorsing a drop shoulder treatment. The diagonal line is accentuated by a border of narrow red and white stripes.

A tailored beach robe of blue and white striped seersucker, shown in right corner, is trimmed with matching percale with a sunbonnet of self material.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Ideal for summer traveling is the handbag of generous size and roominess fashioned of alligator skin, an entire skin being used for a single bag, with side gussets.

Added interest in ostrich is reflected in boas worn with lace or crepe gowns, and in ostrich feather fans.

New Color Scheme Includes Ruby

New York—Ruby is the season's uniform color. It is distinctly a blue season, although there are any number of colorful or white accessories to relieve any tendency toward monotony.

It is interesting, then, to note, in recent reports from Paris, that blue is being tempered with red, and that it is distinctly able to wear a ruby-red hat with a blue dress, provided one has had forethought enough to acquire an appropriate collection of rubies as a tie-up. Rubies are worn with cyclamen and such shades, and are important in contributing just one more color to a costume already boasting at least two. Since there are so many stunning color combinations, and some not so stunning, just tie a string around your finger to remind yourself to combine red with blue, or red with purple. After that, go as far as you like in following the red line.

When July is half over, so is one's interest in summer clothes. One may be just getting around to wearing them, but already their sun has set and interest is focused on fall fashions, which means hats first, of course.

Both velvets and ostrich feathers are slated for a come-back. There are many feather turbans being worn right this minute in Paris. Reboux is their sponsor, but there are also others who are advancing the feather vogue. When Schiaparelli wore that ostrich boa a month or more ago, one might have known that the news would be telegraphed around instantaneously, ostrich feathers would come fluttering from all directions.

Many of the early fall hats are fashioned of ribbon, and some of it is velvet. Velvet ribbon has appeared off and on this summer, usually as a sash or something, but now it is put to a wider variety of uses.

It does not come as a surprise that fabric hats again start the season. They have been a success so far. With new fabrics about to be unveiled, it seems reasonable to suppose that many of them should have found their way to the millinery workrooms. One may not think of broadcloth in connection with hats, but very good looking models are being made of it, some of them buttoned, or seeming to be buttoned, at strategic points.

Buttons Go to Our Heads

The fabric hat promises to bring in buttons as a trimming. Several of the earlier fall imports, including some of Descat's broadcloth models,

One of the most attractive formal afternoon costumes appropriate for this season is this navy blue chiffon frock with tiny jacket with neckline finish of white organdie. This white touch is repeated in the band of the navy blue straw hat. The shirred waistline and shoulders, and the short puffed sleeves give the costume a definitely individual silhouette.

added width to the side by this type of decoration. Later models again show buttons. They keep to the simple tailored idea, and offer opportunities for developing color contrasts if this is desired, although so far all have been of the hat material and in monotone.

STRIPES IN VOGUE

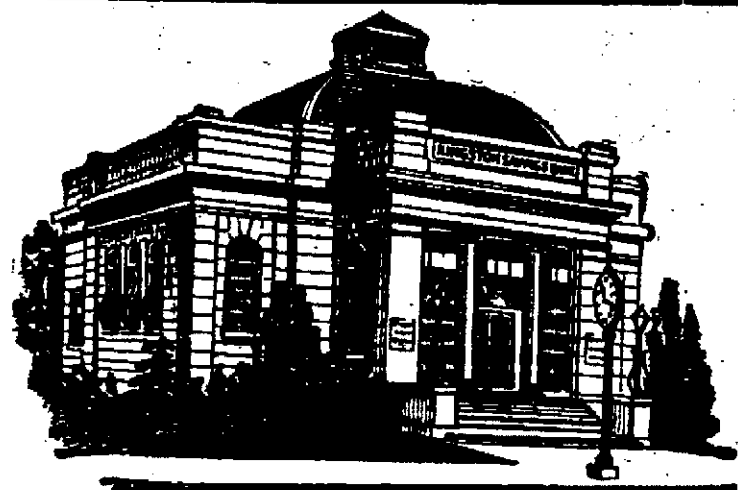

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Stripes are much in the mode this season. They run up and down in vertical lines, they slant diagonally, or they go horizontally, or the designer works them together in clever effects. The shirtwaist suit of striped wash silk or of striped seersucker is in the very foreground of sports fashions. The model pictured is of silk, brown and white if you please, for the combination is a most popular one at the present moment. Stripes do trickier things this season. Such as forming insets after the manner adopted in goring and paneling the skirt as here pictured. Other examples of the doling of stripes are the cunning seersucker jacket suits which are aspiring to look military with their fastenings of shaly nickel buttons. The blouse of navy and white lawn which is trimmed with metal buttons is also a leading style item.

Phosphorous Dangerous

"Fox fire" is the name given to any decaying or rotten wood, which becomes phosphorescent. The common yellow phosphorus is very dangerous to handle, taking fire spontaneously and making bad burns. It is usually kept under water. The red phosphorus is not so dangerous and does not take fire except at higher temperatures.

News of Today In Kingston

Did you ever hear of water too pure?

Well, there are two creeks flowing out of the Catskill full of it and New York city is using millions of gallons of the same pure liquid every day. The names of the creeks are the Esopus and Schoharie. They feed the reservoir which is the source of supply for the metropolis.

This water being too pure means just this, that it does not contain that which pure water should contain, and as a result it plays havoc with iron pipes. Its corrosive effect has led to four years of experiment by the chemist of the water department.

Instead of the water having the alkaline reaction characteristic of surface water there is trace of an acid that is injurious to ferrous substances. It is particularly destructive to galvanized-iron pipe so much used in house service lines. It attacks the cast-iron mains. Chemists tried to discover some preparation by which the acid could be overcome and they did but its use could not be employed. The remedy was a heavy application of lime which hardened the water too much. However, they succeeded in rubbing out the color stain caused by the acid in the water.

This drastic reaction of the water on iron pipes led New York city to tremendous expense and also long periods of experiment in pipe construction. The inside of pipes had to have a coating in order to give service for any length of time. Tar, cement and asphalt were used for the coating and this added approximately $4 a ton to the cost of pipe. Stop to consider a moment the amount of pipe purchased by New York city and the added expense of the special constructed conveyor.

However, the new-style over a period of two years shows no corrosion from the untreated Catskill water. The large city mains have a coating that will last for 15 or 20 years at the end of which time they may be repaired without being disturbed. There also will allow men to work in them.

Prudent we should be to have such water flowing from our Catskills. The country needs a shorter working day. That was the substance of a conversation of men last night who had an idea of what the country needed. The present condition, however, means that the supply is greater than the demand. All this was created by the long working hours which flooded the market.

It seems that people have learned or should have learned by now that it is always better to keep the demand greater than the supply.

It was suggested by one of the gentlemen, rolling a cigar in the corner of his mouth like some politicians, that the hours for work should be cut down to five or six a day. That would be giving the employer more time to play golf and the employee more time to spend his or her money. It will not be until the public is rain-barred that the handwagon will start rolling again.

Glenn Hunter, the boy who left school at Newburgh to go on the stage, is playing the leading male role in the play "Merton of the Movies" at the Elvethorpe Theatre this week. It's a role Glenn has played thousands of times but after he finishes his run here, he's going to say goodbye to Mexico forever.

The part is so typical of Glenn that it's almost his life portrayed on the stage. It contains his aspirations of youth. The play is the life of a boy who seeks fame as an actor. This boy comes from a small town like Glenn, who was born in Highland Mills, and attains the heights that he sought, just like the Highland boy.

No doubt there will be a pang of grief in Mr. Hunter's heart when he makes his last bow before the footlights and remembers that he played the part of Merton for the last time. Still he must go on, there are greater things waiting for him to accomplish that can only be attempted by youth.

Governor Accepts Tow for His Yawl

With Governor Roosevelt, Morris Cove, Conn., July 12 (AP).—A strong wind that roughened Long Island Sound this morning forced Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to accept a tow for his yawl as it left this cove to continue his vacation sail along the New England coast.

The resumption of his trip with his sons was delayed by the wind until 10:15 a. m. (eastern daylight time) when the New Haven Yacht Club's power launch towed the

With it out into the sound after being tied up here over night.

The sound was getting rougher as the yawl, followed by a press boat and one carrying some of the governor's lieutenants, passed along the Connecticut shore. New London, near the eastern boundary of the state, was expected to be reached by 1:30 or 2 p. m. (EDT).

peace for the trial, help from above, trailing sympathy, undying love.

REDEEMER LUTHERANS
PLAN SCHOOL PICNIC

The Sunday School of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer is looking forward to a very successful picnic at Haabrouck Park Wednesday, July 13. A full program of interest to young and old has been arranged so that there will not be a dull moment throughout the day. In case of inclement weather the picnic will be held on Thursday. In addition to the contests announced previously there will be a tug of war, a peanut scramble, horseshoe pitching and a balloon race. The small children will meet at the church at 8:30 a. m. and be taken to the park in cars. John Spalt is in charge of the entertainment. The chairman of the picnic committee is Mrs. J. Rosa, who is being assisted by members of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Lunch will be served at noon and in the evening.

The heavy duty piston pins used in the motors of the Pontiac Six and V-Eight are larger in diameter than the piston pins of any other American production car—regardless of size or price. Piston pins of equal size are found only in one other automobile which is built on special order and costs approximately $10,000. These oversize piston pins—one and one-sixteenth inches in diameter—are claimed by Pontiac engineers to contribute importantly toward long engine life and service free durability. Due to the exceptional strength of the pins is said they offer maximum resistance to deflection under the impulse of cylinder explosions, while their unusual diameter serves to distribute widely and evenly the stresses which engine operation imposes upon both the pistons and the connecting rod bearings.

CAS RUGGLES—Theory versus Practice.

Tips on CONTRACT

MISSFITTING BIG HANDS.
By Tom O'Neil.

Long suits with top strength and some possibilities in side suits are tempting to players who like to bid slams, but one essential element in trying a slam without undue risk is an indication some time during the bidding that hands of partners fit.

In point is a hand in which the dealer held eight hearts with the tops and no diamonds. His partner held seven diamonds with tops and no hearts. There was game in either suit but no slam. Neither partner heeded the warning of the other. A slam was bid by each. Each brought a double. The declarer was set vulnerable.

Charles Ellsworth dealt the hands at a game in Chicago as follows:

NORTH		EAST
♠ K42	♦ A85	♠ J1098	♦ 73
♥ A10865	♣ A85	♥ K74	♣ 952
♥ J9	♣ J9	♥ A10865	♣ K42

South opened the bidding with four hearts, a sound offering based on the fact that his hand was probably useless unless hearts should be trumped and game was obviously possible with slight assistance from partner.

Such a preemptive original bid means that partner should pass, even with a fair hand. He is not warranted in carrying the bidding toward a slam without support in the suit bid by the dealer and strength in other suits also.

West passed. With his blank in hearts, two aces and a king north envisioned slam possibilities, especially if diamonds should happen to fit the south hand. He bid five diamonds. South very properly bid five hearts. Assuming that north would not bid without strength, south hoped for a slam if north should have as much as the heart queen or two small.

South led the ace of spades, which west led at once, and the queen of hearts. At diamonds north would have lost the ace of spades and the trump king.

News from the World on Wheels

Johnker (Baron) Jan Feith, sportsman, author, playwright and world-traveler, accompanied by his wife is now en route to California where for the fifth consecutive time he will represent his country and the Netherlands Olympic committee at the Olympic sports events, to be held at Los Angeles this summer. The titled visitors are making the trip to the Coast in a new Chevrolet Convertible Cabriolet, easily identified with official insignia on the doors and pennants of Continental motor clubs flying from the head-lamps.

The wide public reception accorded the new Streamline series of Willys-Overland sixes and eights and Willys-Knight, introduced by the Toledo manufacturer last month, is indicated by the sales increase of the company's product in June, the volume being 56 per cent greater than in the preceding month. H. B. Harper, vice-president in charge of sales announced. Not only did sales for the month show a healthy gain over May but the bank of unfilled orders on July 1 exceeded the volume on hand the same date last year. Indications are that July business will, at least, equal, and will probably exceed the sales in July of last year, Mr. Harper stated.

"Modern driving conditions emphasize the need for designing automobile seats from the standpoint of safety as well as comfort," says P. A. Bower, chief engineer of the Buick Motor Company. "In modern high-speed travel," Mr. Bower points out, "the driver must sit in such a position that he can see quickly the approaching traffic and road conditions without having to shift or strain. The driver cannot be expected to jump up out of his seat to see what is ahead. The seating arrangements in Buick cars are the result of exhaustive studies and fatigue tests, conducted by Buick engineers, assisted by famous medical anatomists. Another factor considered by Buick is ease of car control. Driving seats are built so the driver can reach all the controls—wiper control button, brake pedal, hand brake lever, instrument board and steering wheel—with perfect ease from his driving position.

The business or professional man who is wise enough to consider price in its proper relation to quality, performance and workmanship will find the Studebaker Six Coupe for two an unusual "buy" even in these days of unusual bargains, according to The Van Motor Car Company. Studebaker dealers here. "The Studebaker Six Coupe for two is an ideal choice for the person who desires a smart, fast, economical and dependable car for business or semi-social use. It is a car which anybody would be proud to drive, yet its price, $840 at the factory, places it within easy reach. The 30 horsepower engine proved its championship caliber last year on some of the stiffest hill climbs in America. All trace of vibration is virtually eliminated at all speeds. Pistons are electro-plated and provide a close-fitting, free-acting piston surface which greatly minimizes the possibility of scoring and piston slap.

De Soto goes "high-hat" today with the introduction of a Custom Town Car, the most luxurious and completely equipped model ever to bear the De Soto name. The Town Car will not be a production job but will be Custom-built on order. The smart new body type was designed to meet the needs of discriminating motorists who wish to combine the exclusive De Soto features with a body style that affords greater privacy together with the chauffeur-driving arrangement.

The heavy duty piston pins used in the motors of the Pontiac Six and V-Eight are larger in diameter than the piston pins of any other American production car—regardless of size or price. Piston pins of equal size are found only in one other automobile which is built on special order and costs approximately $10,000. These oversize piston pins—one and one-sixteenth inches in diameter—are claimed by Pontiac engineers to contribute importantly toward long engine life and service free durability. Due to the exceptional strength of the pins is said they offer maximum resistance to deflection under the impulse of cylinder explosions, while their unusual diameter serves to distribute widely and evenly the stresses which engine operation imposes upon both the pistons and the connecting rod bearings.

At The Theatres

Today
Kingston: "The Broken Wing."
Love in the bad lands below the Rio Grande is the main point in this well acted picture. Lupe Velez does well and Leo Carrillo as the bad man is very convincing, while Melvyn Douglas as the hero makes this not too new plot very good entertainment.

Orpheum: "Touchdown" and "Night World." The first is a football story that is different from the usual run, with Richard Arlen and Jack Oakie exposing some of the crooked inside dope on the football methods now in use. The second feature offers Lew Ayres and Mae Clark with Boris Karloff in a modern story of night life.

Broadway: "Make Me a Star." At last Stuart Erwin comes into his own. After playing in minor roles for several years, and stealing most of the scenes, he at last is featured along with Joan Blondell in a story of a small town boy in Hollywood looking for stardom. Mr. Erwin proves to be a talented actor with a definite screen personality, and the work of Joan Blondell is as thoroughly enjoyable as ever. There are laughs and tears in this story of the moving picture industry. Ben Turpin and Zasu Pitts are also in the cast. Fine entertainment.

Tomorrow
Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "The Single Sin" and the "Ghost City." The first is a well acted story with Kay Johnson carrying off the honors. Bert Lytell and Paul Hurst also give good performances. Not a new plot but splendidly acted. The second offers Bill Cody and Andy Shufford in another western thriller.

Broadway: Same.

Laziness and Idleness
There's an obvious and considerable difference between laziness and idleness. Laziness is to have nothing to do; idleness is to have lots to do and no serious intention of doing it. Laziness is an involuntary slavery to circumstances; idleness is the free choice of a philosophic independence.—Philadelphia Record.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

Baseball holds scarcely any jobs more thankless than the task of tagging the third-base shoes of Harold Grier.

The Pirates lost his place at shortstop in the Pittsburgh Pirates infield early in the season because of his poor batting average and rode the bench day after day until last week when Traynor went out with a finger injury.

Since then he not only has fielded well but has shown distinct signs of emerging from his long batting slump. His average for his last four games stood at .312 today and he has been getting his hits where they would do the Pirates the most good.

Yesterday it was his hitting that enabled the Pirates to trim Brooklyn, 5-3, give Steve Swetonic his 10th victory of the season and increase Pittsburgh's lead over the second place Chicago Cubs to two and a half games.

Tommy drove in two runs with a single in the fifth and then led off with a triple in the eighth and scored the last run on Lloyd Waner's third single. It was Pittsburgh's ninth victory in 11 games. Since May 19 the Pirates have won 34 games and lost only 14 for an average of .708.

The Cubs bowed to Huck Betts and the Boston Braves, 8-2, although the Braves got only six hits. They bunched three of these with a pass and a wild throw by Stanley Hack to score five runs in the first inning and drive Pat Malone to cover.

In the American League, the Yankees pounded Hadley and Cooney for 15 hits, including homers by Joe Sewell and Arndt Jorgens, buried the St. Louis Browns under a 15-4 score and stretched their lead to seven and one-half games over the second place Philadelphia Athletics.

The Athletics dropped two to Cleveland as the two clubs picked up where they had left off in their 18-inning game at Cleveland Sunday. The two clubs scored 36 runs on 62 hits as Cleveland won 9-8 and 12-7.

Earl Averill clouted three homers and Jimmy Foxx got his 34th.

Al Thomas stopped the Chicago White Sox with seven hits as Washington bunched safeties for a 5-1 decision. Detroit clung to third place by beating the Boston Red Sox, 5-3, behind the effective pitching of George Uhle and the heavy batting of Davis and Webb.

George Gibson's showing with the Pirates is another tribute to aggressive leadership. Baseball men always have considered the former backstop one of the most spirited leaders. He has demonstrated what he can do by making an actual pennant contender out of pretty much the same outfit that dawdled in the second division last year.

Starting At the Top

In these times it is a swell break, even for a Harvard man, to bound out of college right into the top flight of any business.

Charley Devens, the star Crimson pitcher, has a rare opportunity to make the big league grade with the Yankees and cut himself a slice of world series money, too.

Devens stole the collegiate thunder from Yale's Johnny Brocca down the stretch, shutting out his rival in the final game of the season. Up until June, Brocca was touted as the best pitcher on any Eastern campus. The Eli ace has another year or two before he will be in a position to consider entering professional ranks.

House of David to Play All Stars at Fair Grounds Tonight

The Kingston All Stars will try to get even with the House of David team for the recent defeat it handed them in a night game by meeting the bearded diamond experts in a twilight contest this evening at 6:15 o'clock at the Fair Grounds. It is expected that the game will be one well worth seeing and that there will be a large attendance.

There will be no City League game at the Athletic Field this evening, the scheduled match between the Talcots and Northern Neckwear having been postponed in favor of the clash between the House of David and the All Stars.

GAFFNEY ALL STARS

THE UNDEFEATED NINE

Clintondale, July 12.—The Gaffney All Stars of Clintondale on Wednesday evening won their second game of the season from the Wallkill Collegians. Both teams were in good trim but the Clintondale boys proved to be the better team. This is the third game that has been won by the All Stars from the Wallkill Collegians. The first game was with the Collegians, the second with the Wallkill Athletic Club, and the third with the Collegians. The All Stars belong to the Highland Twilight League and have not lost a game this season. They were tied once.

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP).—Italy apparently will have at least one distinction in the Olympic games at Los Angeles—no one else is likely to have so tall an athlete as six foot seven inch Giulio Guardini, twice Olympic fencing champion.

Big Guardini and Little Ugo Frigerio, famous walker, drew most of the attention when the colorful Italian team of 108 athletes arrived yesterday. Frigerio, winner of the 3,000 and 10,000 meter walking titles in the 1920 games and the 10,000 meters in 1924, thinks he can whip the world's best in the 50,000 meter grind at Los Angeles. He did not compete at Amsterdam in 1928 since his specialty was not on the program.

The Italian contingent included representatives in track and field, fencing, gymnastics, boxing, wrestling, weight lifting, rowing, rifle shooting, sailing, cycling, swimming and modern pentathlon.

The Grecian team of six arrived aboard the steamship Byron. Strangely enough there wasn't a marathon runner in the lot.

The French team was to arrive today.

Application to Be Made for Appraisal Of Highway Takings

Application will be made before a special term of the county court at the court house, July 27, for the appointment of commissioners of appraisal to hear claims growing out of the taking of lands for the construction of New Paltz-Plattekill county highway No. 572; New Paltz-Rosendale county highway No. 389, and Rosendale-Perrine's Bridge county highway No. 419, known commonly as Part 1, of the New Paltz-Rosendale-Kingston state route which the state contemplates placing under contract during the present season.

the state will be in a position to commence advertising for bids for the construction of this first section of the route and in all probabilities the work will be commenced this season. This is the highway which Commissioner Brain promised to have constructed at an interview held last year and which he has assured local people will be constructed in this year's program.

The postponed Tailsets-Northern Neckwear City League game, which was to be played this evening, will be played Thursday evening instead of the Forst-Schryvers game. The Butchers and Lumbermen will get together at a later date.

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Ward Brigham pitched a game of ball two nights in succession. He lost both games, but it wasn't his fault.

MILTON
Milton, July 12 — Miss Helen Hamm of Jersey City spent the week-end and holiday with her sister, Mrs. June Booth.

"Little Stories for Bedtime"

by Thornton W. Burgess

AN EXCITING MINUTE

HE LONGEST lives whose wits work fast. Not stop until the danger's past.

Everyone of the Little People on the Green Meadows, in the Green Forest, and around the Smiling Pool knows that this is true. It is those with the quickest wits who have the longest lives. Almost every day everyone of them has to depend on his wits to get him out of danger, unexpected danger. There isn't time for thinking. He must act first and do this thinking later. Such times may come to you and to me, but they are not likely to come often. We go days and days and days without meeting any real danger. But with the Little People it is different. Right when they think themselves safest they are likely to have to use their wits and to use them quickly to save their lives. That is one reason why we should do all we can to help them and protect them and never give them reason to fear us.

'Now it didn't seem possible that there was the least bit of danger for anyone, as Buster Bear swam about in the pond of Paddy the Beaver that hot summer afternoon. It was as quiet and peaceful there as a place could possibly be. Then along came a mischievous Little Breeze and carried the smell of Farmer Brown's Boy to Buster Bear swimming out there in the pond. That doesn't seem like much for Farmer Brown's Boy couldn't possibly have hurt Buster Bear if he had wanted to, and he didn't want to do anything of the kind. But when Buster Bear was a very little cub he was taught that man is not to be trusted and is a creature to be feared, the only one, in fact, to be afraid of. Buster never had got over that fear.

Buster Bear Was Splashing Through the Rushes on the Other Side of the Pond and the Air Was Filled With Ducks.

So the instant Buster caught the faunt smell of Farmer Brown's Boy, his wits said: "Get away from here as quickly as you can! This is no place for you! That is the dreadful man-smell. Get ashore at the nearest place and run!"

Buster didn't stop to think. He turned and made for the shore right where Paddy the Beaver and the Quack family were hiding among the rushes. Now they knew perfectly well that Buster Bear wasn't coming on purpose to hurt them. They knew he didn't know that they were there. But that wouldn't help any if one of his big feet landed on one of them. Buster Bear was frightened, and now they in their turn were frightened. Buster's fright was needless and foolish, but theirs was not. You see, they knew by the way he was coming that he wasn't going to be polite and ask them to get out of his way. No, Mr. Buster was too frightened to be polite; he was in too much of a hurry.

The wits of Paddy the Beaver worked quickly. They always do. He didn't have to stop to think to dive. He just dove without any thinking, and by the time he could do any thinking he was safely out of the way of Buster Bear. At the first splash Buster made as he headed for the shore, the Quack family started to swim out of the way. But Buster Bear was coming too fast for them to get out of his way in that manner. Mr. Quack's wits just opened his wings and sent him up into the air like a rocket. He didn't stop to think to fly; he simply flew. Mrs. Quack did the same thing, and the ten young Quacks, now almost as big as their parents, like dutiful children, followed.

It all happened in just a little minute. It seemed to Farmer Brown's Boy. One minute everything was as quiet and peaceful as could be, and the next Buster Bear was splashing through the rushes on the other side of the pond, and the air was filled with ducks flying in all directions and quacking with fright. It was a very exciting minute, and just to add to the excitement, Farmer Brown's Boy stood up and yelled. That yell seemed to double Buster Bear's speed. The mud and water flew as he dashed through the rushes to the shore and disappeared in the Green Forest, running as if he never would stop. In no time he was quite out of sight, but Farmer Brown's Boy could still hear him crashing his way through the Green Forest. Then once more everything became quiet and peaceful. Farmer Brown's Boy washed the mud from his face and neck. Then he hid and waited patiently. Presently Mr. Quack came on whistling wings and flew twice around the pond. Seeing no one, he dropped down on the water with a splash and then quacked loudly. At once Mrs. Quack and the young Quacks appeared, and soon they were busy talking it all over.

Many Killed in Peruvian Revolt

Lima, Peru, July 12 (AP)—Peruvian Federal troops were in possession of the important northern city of Trujillo again today and Red Cross forces were organizing to clear away the devastation left by one of the bitterest battles in the history of Peruvian revolts.

The city was re-occupied yesterday after the Federal troops launched a fierce attack against the Communist rebels by land, sea and air.

Two persons who arrived by airplane from there last night said Trujillo was a sad spectacle. The streets, they said, were filled with the bodies while some of the rebels still hiding in private houses were keeping up a scattering fire on the Federal troops entering the town.

The main body of the rebel forces was retreating in motor trucks toward Contumaza. In the interior, Federal troops were attempting to cut off the retreat at Cajanamarca, a little less than 100 miles from Trujillo.

The streets were deserted the travelers said, and there was evidence of looting and burning. A report was in circulation that the rebels had slain the two daughters of the prefect, Pedro M. Lariva.

The city was taken, the government said, after the cruiser Grau had shelled the rebel positions from the coast. Two airplanes then flew over the city and the rebels signaled they would surrender. When the planes landed, however, they were fired upon.

Many civilians left before the battle began. The Federal troops occupied the towers of the cathedral and other high places from where they fired upon the rebels in streets, balconies, windows and terraces.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, July 12 (AP)—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—Hudson Valley sweet cherries were steady but soured weakened. Four quart baskets of sweets sold from 35c to 60c and red soured from 15c to 25c.

Hudson Valley red currants eased, but scarcity of black currants resulted in a continued high price. Quart baskets of red currants sold from 4c to 8c, mostly 5c to 6c, while black currants commanded 25c to 35c.

Gooseberries were exclusively from the Hudson Valley. Sales ranged from 8c to 15c a quart.

Arrivals of Hudson Valley red raspberries were light, but fair supplies came from New Jersey, Washington and Oregon. Fancy large raspberries held steady, but small and ordinary were inactive. Pint baskets from Hudson Valley brought 7c to 15c; New Jersey 5c to 12c; Oregon 5c to 10c, and Washington 5c to 9c.

Upland lettuce was dull. Crates of 2 dozen heads sold at 35c to 50c. Some fancy reached 65c while small and poorer brought around 25c.

Green peas weakened due to poor demand. Upland offerings ranged from $1.25 to $1.75 a bushel for the best, while poorer brought 50c to $1.

State beans, celery, mushrooms, romaine and spinach were inactive. Price changes were small on fine quality.

Small shipments of cauliflower are arriving from the Catskill Mountain area and fava beans from upstate. Cauliflower sold within the price range of $1 to $3 per crate. Fava beans in bushel baskets brought from $1 to $1.25.

THE WET PROPAGANDISTS

Almost Had Me Fooled Until I Did Some Thinking for Myself

They said: "Prohibition doesn't prohibit." BUT: Where are the old saloons? The breweries? The distilleries? The liquor advertisements? The truckloads and train-loads of liquor we used to see?

They said: "Prohibition destroys personal liberty." BUT: So does the quarantine law, the anti-dope law, the traffic laws, and a hundred other laws that make life safer and safer.

They said: "Prohibition makes law-breakers." BUT: Do our tariff laws make smugglers? Do our speed laws make hit-and-run drivers? Does the prohibition of dope make dope-heads? Do the Ten Commandments make sinners?

They said: "Such lawlessness is a disgrace." BUT: They published articles and advertisements urging citizens to break the law.

ALL PATRIOTIC CITIZENS should join the forces of self-restraint and law-observance and should oppose the forces of self-indulgence and lawlessness.

Civil War Veterans Guard House Doors

Washington, July 12 (AP)—Eight aged, picturesque Civil War veterans sit daily on guard at the House gallery doors, sagely viewing the modern legislative scene.

Personal economy cuts can't touch them. Age retirement rules can't remove them although they average 84 years. A law passed a half century ago says they can't be dismissed.

Their names are on "Soldiers' Roll," traditionally numbering fourteen, made inviolate soon after the Civil War. Custom has been that when one veteran on this list died another would be appointed to take his place.

But time is thinning their ranks. "Soldiers' Roll" inevitably is becoming a "Last Man's Club."

Eliahu Mead, 87, ten years on the President's gallery, has opened the doors for the crown prince of Sweden, Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Coolidge and all the cabinet wives to watch the House at work.

Nearly, white-bearded William H. Young, 90, Iowan, does door duty for diplomats. His claim to fame: "I spent seven months in Andersonville prison—and survived."

John H. Shepherd, only 83, a New York cavalryman at fifteen, still carries a Civil War bullet in his chest close to his collar bone—a souvenir of the night of surrender when he was left in an old house a short distance from Appomattox.

John T. Ryan, 85, says Teddy Roosevelt clapped him on the back when he heard his record in helping defend the city of Washington from Confederate invasion.

John R. King, 89, was commander in chief of the G. A. R. in 1905. Fighting with the Sixth Maryland Regiment, he was wounded three times.

F. J. Young, 85, has written stirring Civil War memoirs.

Hosea B. Moulton, 89, can give a personal experience account of the arsenal explosion that shook Washington June 17, 1864.

John W. Leitch, 85, said: "It's past and gone—like a dream. About all I remember is that I was a Sunday school boy in Henry Ward Beecher's church and when he raised a regiment I volunteered as a drummer boy and later re-enlisted as a private."

Sisterhood Card Party. The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel will hold its annual card party at Kingston Point Park on Thursday afternoon, July 14, starting at 2:30 o'clock. There will be favors and refreshments. The hostess of each table is requested to bring a pack of cards.

Old Charity Continued. Just outside the ancient city of Winchester, England, is a famous institution, the Hospital of St. Cross, established by Bishop Henri of Blois in 1136 for the maintenance of 13 worthy men, unable to work, and for the supplying of one meal daily to 100 more. This hospitality is still maintained.
